THE CARRANZA RECOGNITION

WELL, we've recognized Carranza, but is it a mere passing acquaintance, or will it ripen into a real friendship? Let's see: Carranza was a constitutionalist, wasn't he? Or, perhaps he was a federal or a confederate, or mayhap a nationalist. Ask his followers and they will roll another cigarette and look wise. He may or may not have represented a principle, and it may have been that the principal was one of self aggrandizement, the amassing of private wealth or the gaining of public fame.

At all events he was recognized yesterday by the United States and by Argentina, with other American powers to also extend the glad hand and the winning smile.

But whether or not this recognition means the establishment of a stable government in the region to the southward, only time will tell and it may be only a very brief time that will be necessary. This recognition doesn't pacify Mexico. It simply means that the Carranza government may now be considered as one in power, but it does not follow that it is also in the right, nor that it will be permanent. The conditions in Mexico are such that pacification is far in the future, for there will leaders small and puerile spring up from time to time and lead their peons on to promised victory, a victory that means everything to the leader and nothing to the peon. It is not a state of war that has been and continues to be extant in Mexico, but a condition of anarchy, and no matter how many nations recognize this or that leader who may temporarily have the upper hand, the end is not yet.

RULE WORKS BOTH WAYS

CHARLES H. SHERRILL, former United States minister to Argentina, expressed the opinion today in an address before the University of Buffalo that the time is ripe for this government to ask European countries to relinquish possession of their colonies in the western hemisphere.

That is all very well to ask them, but at the same time it is also very well for the European powers to ask the United States for indemnity for losses which their subjects have sustained by reason of the United States failing to enforce the Monroe Doctrine in its spirit and reason. If the foreign powers had attempted to protect their subjects and their possessions, the administration would doubtless have deemed it "an unfriendly act."

The Goldfield Tribune knocked our cave out at Sylvanite and now says that our volcano is extinct. Well there are other things besides volcanoes that are extinct at Goldfield.
